

Contents

Preface.....	7
Chapter 1: The Methodology of System Transformation
The Discrepancy Between Theory and Reality	15
1.1 The Curse of Ideology.....	16
1.2 The Limitations of the Aprioristic Speculative Model.....	18
1.3 The Illusion of Metaphor/Analogy.....	20
1.4 Individual Concept (Concrete) and General Concept (Abstract).....	23
1.5 The Trap of Economics: From Real Economics to Financial Economics.....	24
1.6 Fallacy of GDP Supremacy.....	26
1.7 Limits of Phenomenalism.....	28
1.8 Limits of Historicism.....	30
1.9 Analysis of Structure and Change.....	31
Chapter 2: Social Philosophy of System Transformation.....	34
2.1 Impossibility of a National Economic Planning.....	35
2.2 System Transformation (Transition): From What to What?.....	37
2.2.1 From Socialism to Capitalism.....	37
2.3 Exchange (give and take) and Allocation (give but obey).....	39
2.4 The Self-Destruction of a Society.....	42
2.5 Systemic Liabilities.....	44
2.6 A Society not Functioning Autonomously.....	45
2.7 The Self-Collapse of Society: Apoptotic or Necrotic?.....	46
2.8 The Aporia of Social Transformation.....	48
2.9 The Conversion of a Social Phase: “Transition” or “Transformation”.....	49
2.10 The Ideology of Social Transformation.....	50
2.11 Post-Socialist Ideology.....	51
Chapter 3: The Economics of System Transformation
Capital Accumulation during the Economic Crisis	54
3.1 The General Economic Crisis Induced by the System Collapse.....	54
3.2 The Aporia of the System Transformation.....	57
3.3 Coupon Privatization and Foreign Direct Investment.....	61
3.4 Barren Debates with Fake Models.....	68
3.5 Corruption during the Early Stage of the System Transformation.....	72
Addendum – Misconceptions concerning the Transitional Period.....	84
Chapter 4: The Economics of Post-Socialism
Conflicts between State and Market	86
4.1 High Tax Burdens Restrain the Development of a Market Economy.....	86
4.2 The Structure of the Borrowed Economy.....	91

4.3 The “Treasurization” of the National Economy	109
4.4 Corruption in Post-Socialist Society	112
4.5 Capital Accumulation under the Treasurized Economy	133
Addendum: Difficulties in Changing Social Norms.	140
 Chapter 5: The Sociology of System Transformation
Shortage in the Treasurized Economy	143
5.1 Changes in the Consumer Lifestyle and the New Shortage Phenomenon	143
5.2 A Shortage of Skilled Workers Brought About by Migrants	157
5.3 The Social Psychology of Queuing.	162
 Chapter 6: The Politics of System Transformation
The Legacy of the Old System.	172
6.1 The Character and Changes of the Socialist Government	175
6.2 The Disappearance of SZDSZ.	192
6.3 The Founding and Background of Fidesz	195
6.4 The Policy Mix of the Fidesz Government	202
6.5 The Rebuilding of the Fidesz Media Empire and Manipulation of Public Opinion	212
Addendum: The Future of the Fidesz Empire.	219
 Chapter 7: Post-Socialism and Populism
The East-West Divide on the Refugee and Immigration Issues.	225
7.1 The Great National Move 2015.	225
7.2 Mandatory Quotas for Refugees and Migrants.	233
7.3 The Battle between the Hungarian Government and George Soros	235
7.4 Persistent Retaliation against the Soros Foundation	240
7.5 The Hungarian Government’s Criticism of the EU	241
7.6 The EU Summit Resolution.	245
7.7 The Sanction Resolution in the European Parliament.	247
7.8 Left and Right Populism.	249
7.9 Social Factors in the European East-West Divide	252
Addendum: Border Control vs. Forced Quotas	256
 Chapter 8: A Historiography of System Transformation
Rethinking Socialism in the Twentieth Century	258
8.1 The Reality of Eastern European Socialism	258
8.2 The Hungarian Uprising and the Kádár Regime	302
 Chapter 9: Summarizing Twentieth-Century Socialism and System Transformation
9.1 War Socialism	336
9.2 Limits of Economic Reform	345
9.3 Ten Propositions for Understanding System Transformation	349
9.4 Social Norms and Ethics	359
Literature	364
Index	371